INTRODUCTION.
Moderato.

TILL READY.

I know a girl who lives in Fox town, She's the girl named Flor-rie Fox, And she does a dance of much re-nown, And All of the girls are fox-trot craz-y, Try to co-py Flor-rie's style, But she is the one real danc-ing dais-y has such pret-ty lit-tle gold-en locks. She is a love-ly sight 'most ev-'ry night, While danc-ing at the Fox town

With her cap-ti-vat-ing lit-tle smile. Be-cause the min-ute she steps on the floor, Why, ev-'ry fel-low there says,

Cab-a-ret, Oh, she makes ev-'ry bo-dy stop and stare, And you can hear the peo-ple say:
"She's my kind!" And waits his turn to have a dance with her, And leaves his oth-er girl be-hind.

CHORUS.

She's a fox-y lit-tle girl, she does a fox-y lit-tle dance, In a fox-y lit-tle sor- of p-f

way And she keeps a go-ing ev-'ry night and day With a ve-ry, mer-ry fox-y lit-tle sway that makes you feel as if you want to step a-round, step a-round, step a-round, With this fox-y lit-tle girl so gay, If you want to learn the fox-trot, do it now, With the cut-est lit-tle fox who wears the cut-est lit-tle frocks; My lit-tle Fox-trot girl! She's a girl!
