Big city ways and its splendor
Somehow are starting to pall,
And I have a feeling
That often comes stealing,
To just get away from it all.

Let's ride away, let's hide away,
And leave the world behind us;
Let's find a vale 'way off the trail,
Where only God can find us.
Somewhere out there, where we can share
Our love 'neath skies of blue,
I'll build a shrine for me and mine,
Out there in the sunshine with you!

Out of the rush and the rabble,
Out when the day's work is done,
We'll both go a-finding
A pathway that's winding
It's way to a place in the sun.

Some - where out there, where we can share Our love 'neath skies of blue, — I'll build a shrine for me and mine Out there in the sun-shine with you!

I sit at home and sigh with no-bod-y
You would be lone-some too you'd be oh, so nigh to hear me, None to cheer me, No one is there to blue and lone-ly If your on-ly friend was your ra-diknow of my tale of woe But my ra-di-o o you'd feel bad, I know With no place to go

Refrain

Tell me ra - di - o, I'd like to know if an - y - bod - y's lone some—— Tell me ra - di - o, - why must I go for ev - er by my own - some—

— Sure - ly in this great big world there must be some one with a heart I can win—

Ev - 'ry day and ev - 'ry eve - ning I've been list - en - ing in. — Why must I be sad and blue, I need a word of con - so - la - tion — Help me find some - one to hear my plea from your broad - cast - ing sta - tion — Some where birds are sing - ing — Wed - ding bells are ring - ing — Tell me ra - di -

- o, when will they ding dong for me? Tell me ra - di - me?

For I know just assure as our souls en-dure We'll meet some-where, somehow And I'll wake to your song with a love just as strong

Ten thous-and years from now.

Copyright MCMXXIII by M. Witmark & Sons

THEY still believe, in old Japan,
Should lovers live their earthly span
Without fulfillment of desire,
Or leave unquenched love's sacred fire,
They'll live again to love at last,
When ten thousand years have passed.

Ten thousand years seem a long, long time
To wait for a dream to come true,
Yet 'twould seem but a day
Dreaming cent'ries away,
To wake at the end with you.
For I know just as sure as our souls endure,
We'll meet somewhere, somehow,
And I'll wake to your song,
With a love just as strong,
Ten thousand years from now.

No lapse of time nor length of space
Can dim the mem'ry of your face;
No tales ten thousand tongues might tell
Can change in me your magic spell,
Nor still the song within my soul,
Tho' ten thousand years unroll.

J. Keirn Brennan.
